A particularly attractive, detached period family home nestled in extensive private gardens and grounds in the idyllic Poylldooey nature reserve, on the outskirts of Ramsey, the Island's main town in the north. This double-fronted home is accessed via a private 'in-out' driveway and provides extensive accommodation to include six bedrooms, four reception rooms, three bathrooms and a stunning yet traditional farmhouse kitchen. The house has been tastefully modernised and extended over the years, retaining its period features throughout. It has been beautifully decorated and is presented to the highest standards.

The vendor has recently lime-rendered the exterior walls, whilst interior decor has been maintained to a high standard throughout. A spacious Amdega orangery was added in 2008. Adjoining is a well-appointed hand-painted period country house kitchen, complete with an electric AGA, an array of units and granite worktops plus well-fitted pantry. The utility room is fitted with further bespoke units and leads off from the kitchen. Additionally, there is a formal living room, cosy family sitting room and wonderful separate dining room with bay window and large inglenook fireplace.

Upstairs, the bedrooms are spacious and well presented. The bathrooms too have been meticulously finished to the highest of standards. The master bedroom is particularly impressive with a stylish ensuite, built-in wardrobes and storage, and a wisteria-clad cast iron balcony overlooking the rose garden and lawns.
